Equal access to Medicine and treatment is a key value of the Swiss National Cancer Plan (Nationale Strategie gegen Krebs NSK / Stratégie national contre le cancer SNC). Reimbursement by basic health insurance plays a vital role in providing and maintaining such an equal access. However, the current models of reimbursement in Switzerland seem to reach their limits with regards to keeping up with the rising costs of cancer drugs and treatment. In this Workshop-Session, hosted by the Swiss National Cancer Plan, we will look into possible solutions and we will discuss models that could help keeping equal access to medicine and treatment in Switzerland. After short inputs by the discussants, everybody is welcome to join the discussion.
